

NEW YORK ISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, Nov. 17, 1869. The Pneumatic-Despatch Company. Perhaps I should not be very far out in my calculations if I should say that not more than one in ten thousand of those who travel up and down Broadway realize the fact that that thoroughfare is being undermined and tunneled in the vicinity of Warren street. Excavations are being made there under the direction of the Pneumatic-Despatch Company, whose motto seems to consist in the two words "keep them."

Among the questions started by some of the invidious visitors at Miss Tackaberry's soirees at Irving Hall is, whether Miss Tackaberry is a masculine woman or a feminine boy. A portion of these questioners incline to a belief in the medium's masculinity, and one strong-minded feminine member of a certain newspaper offers to hand him one hundred dollars, on condition that he will allow her to demonstrate this question of sex. If Mr. Tackaberry accepts, that $100 will be more easily made than the proceeds of any soiree hitherto given.

The ladies comprising this Sorosis have just come from their monthly vicarious at "Demontico's." It has been some time, however, since much has been published about them. Perhaps some of you have forgotten its objects. Let me recapitulate them, as well as my memory of the soiree-printed circulars will permit. It is intended to promote agreeable and useful relations among women of literary and artistic tastes; to be entirely independent of sectional or partisan bias; to recognize women of thought, taste, intelligence, culture, and humanity everywhere, when those qualities have found an expression in outward life and work; to establish an order among women that shall render them helpful to each other, and remove in some degree barriers which custom and etiquette place in the way of friendly intercourse and mutual aid.

The elegant soiree celebrated their annual ball last night at Thomas' Garden. It was an exceedingly unadorned affair. The fantastic costumes resembled the burlesque inventions of a Glodche troupe, and the can-can was danced in a broader style than was ever seen upon the boards of the French Theatre, the Grand Opera House, or the Fifth Avenue. The atmosphere was thick with bad gin and cigars, and the air did you ever see a ball-room simulated upon the stage of the Old Bowery? Do you remember the froxy costumes, the tinselled trains from whose tatters dust rose in clouds as the women swept along? Such was the scene, upon an indefinitely extended scale, at the ball of the Frog-Town Rangers.

"Lights and Shadows of London." Mr. Taylor has just introduced the play of London, said to be the joint production of Messrs. Clarke and Robinson. The scenery is very fine, indeed, too fine for truthfulness, for all the localities look as though they were bran new. The play has literary merit, but deserves to be classed with such picturesque sensations as After Dark, the Streets of New York, Under the Gaslight, etc.

JEWISH REFORM.

We find in the columns of a leading contemporary the following communication from a distinguished Jewish divine of this city. It will be read with interest by all who are concerned in the welfare of the Jewish Church:— Your paper published a series of resolutions, passed by thirteen Israelites who claim rabbinical authority. Those who are in the habit of reading that paper are the appointed guardians of biblical and traditional laws. Hence, they must at a glance have discovered the anomalies and contradictions of such resolutions. But the Christian public, naturally less conversant with Jewish matters, may have reasonably judged from the ideas set forth at the late convention that the Hebrew Church is in a state of dissolution. To correct that impression, I will say:— The utterances of the men who assembled at the private residence of Dr. S. Hirsch will be confined and remain unheeded by the largest majority of Israelites. With this assertion, resting upon historical evidence, the whole matter might be dismissed. But the minds of Americans have been drawn to the doings of a few, who exhibit themselves before the world as leaders of progress, and, indirectly, cast reflections upon thousands who discard their views. The press also has commented eulogistically upon the propositions emanating from the so-called Rabbinical Conference, but without clearly understanding their purport. It is needless, therefore, to explain why they are inadmissible; to show how tallent being; but specially a body of men who presume to legislate for an entire people. That certain dogmas, accepted by the Synagogue, have been rejected, that the restoration of belief without the patriarchal law was declared a false hope, though standing on strong scriptural grounds; that any foundation for understanding that the Bible may be quoted in its support, is comparatively of little importance; for that circumstance could not materially affect the preservation of a religion which demands of votaries only attendance to prescribed duties. But when it was resolved to alter the features of the whole matrimonial status in Israel, denouncing the powers which ecclesiastical authorities have ever exercised, to decide whether the bond of wedlock might or might not be severed by permitting a wife to contract a second marriage without possessing a full knowledge that her husband's absence is occasioned by death, then questions most weighty and important were disposed of in a manner reprehensibly hasty. It has been a just pride of the Hebrews that domestic relations among them have, in general, been happy. For, despite the institution thrown out at the late convention, that according to the traditional mode of performing the marriage ceremony, the bride is a nuptial—still faithful wives and the fondness of mothers adorn the Jewish Church. The stringency of the rules about matrimony, which to the thoughtless appear unnecessary, and consequently calling for modification, proved a wholesome restraint both on parents and children; and while it effected the Divine ordination to keep Israel distinct, and suffering society with men and women of no doubtful extraction. Wherefore, their attempt to change that, the moral advantage of which time has demonstrated. The answer to this query is contained in the third section of the eighth resolution. Had the thirteen Rabbis who met last week in our city been sincere in their declaration touching the "restoration of Israel as a religious people," they would have trembled at the mere harboring of the idea which that section embodied. But, on the contrary, with notions antagonistic to that belief, bent upon removing every trace of the ancient covenant, they did not scruple to proclaim the rite of circumcision a useless institution. Thus, they feared public opinion among their brethren, and therefore disguised their thought; but not so that it can be easily fathomed. At the conclusion of the late conference, the last conference is then but a mad effort to erase with a stroke of the pen what the finger of God wrote in characters of fire. To the discerning Christian, who understands progress mainly to be the improvement of the heart, it must not too obviously appear an empty avowal of certain heterodox views. November, 1869. S. MORRIS.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements. AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC Mozart's great opera of The Magic Flute will be given this evening. AT THE OPERA HOUSE will be performed for the last time this evening. To-morrow there will be a Thanksgiving matinee, when Robertson's comedy of School will be given, and in the evening the popular drama of The Workmen of New York; or The Curse of Strong Drink, will be brought out. Miss Keene has a number of novelties in preparation, including Bella, a new play, said to be by Mrs. Ann S. Stevens, and Patricia, by a new author. We hope sincerely that these may prove to be works of real merit, and suitably calculated to encourage both the authors and the manager. There is, certainly, plenty of literary merit in this country that might be devoted to play-writing, if it were made as honorable and remunerative as other branches of literary work, and a reasonably good American drama is certainly deserving of the consideration of the public.

AT THE WALNUT Mr. Forrest will appear this evening as "Othello." There will be a matinee to-morrow, when the popular drama of Uncle Tom's Cabin will be performed. AT THE ARCH the drama of Lost at Sea will be given this evening. AT DUPREZ & BENEDICT'S OPERA HOUSE an entertaining programme of Ethiopian comicities will be presented this evening. AT THE ELEVENTH STREET OPERA HOUSE an attractive entertainment will be offered this evening. There will be a Thanksgiving matinee to-morrow, and one strong-minded feminine member of a certain newspaper offers to hand him one hundred dollars, on condition that he will allow her to demonstrate this question of sex. If Mr. Tackaberry accepts, that $100 will be more easily made than the proceeds of any soiree hitherto given.

WE LIVE IN THREE CLIMATES.—In this country we have, at different seasons of the year, the temperature of three climates. Our springs and autumns have a softness and mildness that belong only to the temperate zone; our summers are torrid, and our winters almost arctic in their frigidity. These changes, involving a variation of from ninety to one hundred degrees of Fahrenheit during the year, are, upon the whole, conducive to health and long life, but they tend to entail upon us some distressing complaints which can only be escaped by the exercise of due care and the use of a proper antidote when the system is predisposed to contract them. The chief and most annoying of these disorders is dyspepsia, one supposed to be incurable, but which, since the introduction of HOPSTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, now about twenty years ago, has proved to be a perfectly manageable disease. In the spring and fall, but more especially in the fall, the symptoms of dyspepsia are generally aggravated. The profuse expenditure of the animal fluids under the burning sun of summer is apt to leave the stomach weak and indolent, and incompetent to the task of perfect digestion. It requires a tonic which will rouse it from its lethargy, and brace and invigorate without irritating or inflaming it. This tonic has been provided in the wonderful vegetable preparation which has replaced, in a great measure, all the old palliatives formerly prescribed by physicians, under the false idea that the disorder could not be radically cured. The success of HOPSTER'S BITTERS in all the varieties of dyspepsia, acute or chronic, has effectually exploded this fallacy, and it is now recommended as a specific for indigestion by some of the most eminent members of the medical profession.
